Located in an area well known for producing strong recreational opportunities, this property offers an outstanding combination of productive ground, rolling terrain, and prime habitat for both cattle and hunters. The property features approximately 78+/- acres of tillable ground that could be utilized for, cover crops, row crops or grazing to support both livestock and wildlife. A water well is already in place to help support cattle operations, and the property is fully fenced. What truly sets this property apart is its recreational appeal. The area is frequently traveled by elk, with a proven history of elk harvested on the property.
