Step back in time with this remarkable 7-bedroom historic home near downtown McComb, Mississippi, believed to have been built around 1880. Rich in architectural character, the stately residence showcases soaring 14-foot ceilings, original heart pine floors, transom windows, 8-foot stained solid wood doors, intricate millwork, stained-glass accents, and a grand hallway with mahogany paneling and a beautiful wooden staircase. Six fireplaces retain their original ornate mantels and decorative glass tilework, while antique soaker tubs add even more period charm. An upstairs balcony porch overlooks the property, and wrought-iron fencing and gates complement the home's historic architecture. Modern conveniences include a tankless water heater and Rain Bird irrigation system. A unique outdoor bathroom features a custom tiled shower and oversized concrete sink, while an adorable detached outbuilding with two porches, wide-plank wood, and antique brick adds even more character. Just minutes from downtown McComb, this extraordinary property offers a rare opportunity to own a true piece of local history.
