MORE ABOUT THE CHOCTAW 73.5

Whether you enjoy chasing whitetails in the fall or listening to gobblers on a spring morning, this tract is well-suited for year-round recreation. Approximately 1,470 feet of the property adjoins a Tennessee Valley Authority transmission line, and a half-mile stretch of the old, defunct GM&O railroad bed adds a touch of history and the potential for trail riding or walking paths.

A 1,200± square foot cabin sits on the property and is already connected to utilities. With a little work and vision, it could serve as a comfortable hunting camp, weekend getaway, or even a country homesite. Located within the Choctaw County School District, this property offers a strong combination of Southern charm, recreational opportunity, and long-term potential in a desirable Mississippi setting.

If you are ready to buy, you need to give this one a look. To schedule a private showing of the Choctaw 73.5, call Derek Eaves today.
