MORE ABOUT THE LINCOLN 103

For the outdoorsman, this tract is set up and ready to hunt. Several box stands convey with the property, along with established food plots that are ready to be planted in time for the season. A large pipeline runs across the southern boundary and makes an ideal area for big, open plots. Deer and turkey are abundant here, and the mix of timber types ensures quality bedding and Beyond recreation, this property also offers various great options for building. Whether you're looking for a permanent homesite on high ground or a weekend camp getaway, the topography and layout give you several excellent choices. The internal road system is well-developed, providing access throughout.

Conveniently located just 20 minutes from Ruston, this tract combines country living, hunting, and investment potential all in one.
