PROPERTY DESCRIPTION

1,175± Acres on Sugarloaf Mountain — Hartford, Arkansas

Some properties are for sale. This one belongs in a brochure for the state. Spanning 1,175± acres across Sugarloaf Mountain in Hartford, Arkansas, this tract delivers the kind of dramatic, varied terrain that usually only shows up on public land — cliff faces, exposed rock ledges, long-range views, and mile after mile of trail winding through cleared ground and hardwood timber. It's the rare large acreage listing where every corner of the property has something worth walking to.

The Land for Sale

This is not a flat, featureless tract. The topography climbs and drops across the mountain, opening into cleared acreage in places and closing into timber in others, with a network of existing trails already cut throughout for side-by-sides, hunting access, or exploring on foot. Cliff faces and rock ledges break up the terrain in multiple spots, and the elevation gain across the property delivers sweeping, long-distance views in several directions — the kind of scenery that makes people stop the truck and just look for a minute.

Two ponds sit on the property, providing water for wildlife and adding to the recreational value of a tract that already has camping, hiking, hunting, and off-road access built in.

There is one developed area on the property with power already run to it, along with a stone-lined water well at that same location — a strong head start for anyone looking to build a cabin, lodge, or homestead, or simply to develop a base camp. No home or existing structures remain on the property today, giving a buyer a clean slate to build exactly what they want, where they want it.

Bordering Protected Land

Adding to the property's long-term value and privacy, this tract borders land held by the Arkansas Natural Heritage Commission — the Sugarloaf Mountains–Midland Peak Natural Area, roughly 1,191± acres the Commission acquired in 2022 specifically to protect this mountain's rare bluff, glade, and woodland habitat, including the largest known population of the globally rare maple-leaf oak. Because that adjoining land is permanently protected as a natural area, it will never be developed — meaning this property's neighbor, in effect, is protected wilderness. That's an unusual and valuable thing to have next door.
