PROPERTY DESCRIPTION

11.27± Acres - Ready to Build with Well Already Installed | Stoney Mountain Rd, Henry County, VA

Rarely does a property come along that combines convenience, natural beauty, and true move-in-ready potential quite like this one. Tucked just outside Martinsville on Stoney Mountain Rd, this 11.27-acre tract offers the perfect blend of privacy, usability, and recreational value - all in one of Henry County's most desirable rural settings.

Ready to Build, Right Now

Unlike so many raw land listings where you're left guessing at development costs, this property gives you a head start. A well is already installed, saving you time and money on one of the key steps to building. A cleared, level building site is already in place and ready for your dream home, cabin, or weekend getaway. A fresh, up-to-date survey is on hand, so you'll know exactly what you're getting with clearly marked boundaries - no surprises, no delays. And with excellent road frontage along Stoney Mountain Rd, access is easy for construction traffic now and everyday living down the road.

Whether you're planning to break ground next season or simply want the security of owning a build-ready lot for the future, this property lets you skip straight to the fun part.

A Hunter's and Nature Lover's Paradise

Beyond the cleared homesite, the land transitions into beautiful mature hardwood forest, offering both privacy and outstanding wildlife habitat. The property boasts a strong population of white oak trees, prized among hunters and land managers alike for the natural mast crop (acorns) they produce - a major food source that draws in deer, turkey, and other native Virginia wildlife season after season. If you've been searching for a hunting property with real potential, this tract offers the terrain, cover, and food sources to make it a productive one for years to come.

Whether you're after a trophy buck during rifle season, chasing turkeys in the spring, or simply enjoy watching wildlife from your back porch, this land delivers.

The Best of Both Worlds

What makes this property special is its versatility. You get a ready-to-build homesite with a well already in place, combined with acreage that still feels wild, wooded, and private. It's the kind of property where you can build your home, step off the porch, and be in the woods within minutes - or simply hold it as a recreational retreat and hunting getaway.

Located just minutes from Martinsville, you'll enjoy the peace and seclusion of country living while still being close to local shopping, dining, and amenities.

Property Highlights:

- 11.27± acres with fresh, current survey
- Well already installed and in place
- Cleared, level building site ready for construction
- Excellent frontage along Stoney Mountain Rd
- Mature hardwood forest throughout
- Heavy white oak presence for natural wildlife food source
- Prime hunting for deer, turkey, and other Virginia wildlife

- Private, wooded setting minutes from Martinsville
- Rare opportunity for build-ready land with existing well and cleared homesite

Land like this - with a well already in place, a cleared homesite, and quality hunting ground - doesn't come along often in Henry County. Whether your goal is to build now or invest in a property that offers both recreation and future potential, this one is worth seeing in person.
