145 ACRES | LICKING COUNTY, OHIO

145± acres located just west of Johnstown, Ohio in one of Licking County's most active growth corridors, offering nearly one mile of road frontage along Edwards Rd and Duncan Plains Rd. The property is positioned just minutes from Intel's Ohio One semiconductor campus and surrounding data center and infrastructure expansion.

The property is being offered in 5 parcels ranging from approximately 20 to 36 acres, each with road frontage, creating flexibility for a wide range of buyers and allowing for a variety of potential uses moving forward.

The land is comprised of level, productive tillable acreage, making it well suited for continued farming, long term investment, or future development. The property benefits from an AEP high voltage electric transmission line easement and a TC Energy natural gas pipeline easement, providing existing infrastructure that may be attractive to certain end users. While these easements influence the layout, they also offer utility access that is already in place, which can be meaningful for future planning and specialized development.

The tillable portion of the property, approximately 128 acres, is currently leased for the 2026 crop year. The tenant farmer has a first right of refusal for the 2027 crop year. The lease provides annual income of $200 per tillable acre.

According to Monroe Township's comprehensive plan, the property lies within an area identified for future growth and development. Parcels 1 and 2 are currently zoned AG (Agricultural District) and are planned for a Farm Village District, intended to support denser residential development with integrated open space. Parcels 3 through 5 are currently zoned R1 (Suburban Residence District) and are planned for a Mixed Use District that offers flexibility for a variety of potential uses, all subject to township approval.

The seller will provide, at the seller's expense, new boundary surveys. Contiguous parcels purchased by the same buyer will be surveyed as a single parcel. All acreage amounts shown are approximate. Final purchase prices shall be based upon the completed survey of the parcels sold and adjusted on a per acre basis using the gavel price of the auction parcel.

Licking County parcel number 052-173844-00.000. Approximate annual property taxes $4,469.56 (all parcels combined). If sold in parcels, individual tax amounts are to be determined. Johnstown Monroe Local School District.
